ECONOMY

The human slave economy thrives. With no prospect of terminating for the foreseeable future. Indentured servitude. Forced prison labour. Exploitive industry. Human sexual trafficking. Undocumented immigrant smuggling. All at scale. All of the above and more a deadly plague on all peoples of this good Earth.

Joining this cascade of human grief is the animal slave economy. A toxic economy of even greater volume. Where literally billions of lives are destroyed. Where incalculable swaths of Earth are left in ruins. And for what purpose? Death for food. Mass murder for industrial or consumer products & by-products. Ecological destruction and the ravaging of living creatures all of unimaginable proportions.

••
The outcomes and consequences of the toxic animal slave economy are of the utmost gravity. Grave to the extreme. So grave as to be completely unrecognized in conventional and popular human cultures world wide.

This toxic animal slave economy has become so ubiquitous as to be invisible. An undistinguishable and seemingly indelible part of the presumed fabric of life itself, as we imagine it in our times. Essential to our very survival or so we think. Critical to the continuation of our civilization though it is anything but.

•••
The bitter and clear truth is this: the animal slave economy is so toxic as to be central to the dangers confronting the eight or nine or ten billion humans alive today. A toxic economy at the core of why and how we will extinct ourselves. Subjecting ourselves to a mass extinction event of our own toxic, human invention.

••••
The elements of toxicity are great in number and tragic in impact. Millions of hectares of sustaining ecosystems despoiled. Incredible quantities of faeces, urine and waste further despoiling Earth's ecosystem (already in crisis). Gargantuan factories, processing plants, transportation systems pumping products, moving products, selling products, Mountains of garbage, landfill Everests, waters choked. Immense animal death tolls in our seas and on every land.

The list goes on and on and on. Taken as a whole, viewed as one piece, this is an untold horror story with only one end possible.

The so called Anthropocene Era ending as it began: by our own hands. A brief, bloody, senseless conquest of a blissfully amazing and beauteous Earth, By a human species that somehow lost the ability to see into the future. A humanity that abandoned it's humanity. Destroying everything in it's path. Which we continue to do. All for only our own ends. All in service of our own, myopic, ignorant interests.

••••••
What we must understand. What is undeniable. The realization that will come - one way or the other. We must stop.

Stop the toxic economy of animal slavery. Stop the killing. Stop the consumption of dead animals and animal parts. End the hunt. Cease the emptying of our oceans. Terminate deforestation. Return the Earth as a whole to the only state possible for our own survival: unbroken wilderness.

•••••••
Where ever you are. Whoever you may be. In every community on every continent. The challenge, the opportunity, the extreme danger is the same. How to stop the toxic before we stop ourselves. This is the only way ahead. There is no other.

Stop the toxic economy of animal slavery. Abolition now.
